

"THE WANTS OF MAN."

WRITTEN BY JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, JULY 1850.

"Man wants but little here below
Nor wants he little long."
'Tis not his lot to be exact,
But 'tis his lot to be content.
My wants are many, and so told,
Would muster many a score,
And were each with a mind of gold,
I still should long for more.

What first I want is daily bread,
And canvas backs and wine,
And all the realm of nature spread,
Before me when I dine.
Four courses scarcely can provide
My appetite to quell,
With four choice cooks from France besides,
To dress my dinner well.

What next I want, at heavy cost,
Is elegant attire;
Black cable furs for winter's frost,
And silks for summer's fire;
And cambric shirts and Brussels lace,
My bosom front to deck,
And diamond rings my hand to grace,
And rubies for my neck.

And then I want a mansion fair—
A dwelling house in style—
Four stories high, for welcome air,
A massive marble pile;
With halls for banquets and for balls,
All furnished rich and fine—
With stabled steeds in fifty stalls,
And cellars for my wine.

I want a garden and a park;
My dwelling to surround,
A thousand acres (bless the mark),
With walls to compass round;
Where flocks may range at large, and herds may low,
And kids and lambs may play,
And flowers and fruits commingled grow,
All Eden to display.

I want, when summer's foliage falls,
And autumn shrubs the trees,
A house within the city walls,
For comfort and for ease;
But here as space is somewhat scant,
And acres rather rare,
My house in town I only want,
To occupy a square.

I want a steward, butler, cook,
A coachman, footman, groom,
A library of bound books,
And picture galleries;
Correggio's Magdalen, and Night,
The Madonna and Child,
Guido's fine couriers in their flight,
And Claude at least a pair.

I want a cabinet profuse,
Of medals, coins and gems—
A printing press for private use,
Of fifty thousand "ems";
And plans, and minerals, and shells,
Worms, insects, fishes, birds,
And every beast on earth that dwells,
In solitude and herds.

I want a board of burnished plate,
Of silver and of gold—
Tureens of twenty pounds in weight,
With sculpture's richest mold—
Platens with chased and silver feet,
Plates, dishes, all the same,
And porcelain vases, with the stars
Of Sevres, Angoulême.

I want maps of the largest pane,
From Venice must be brought,
And sandal wood and bamboo cane,
For chairs and tables bought.
On all the maps, I place a clock,
Of three gilt bronzes, must stand,
And screens of ebony and box,
To invite the stranger's hand.

And mirrors of the largest pane,
From Venice must be brought,
And sandal wood and bamboo cane,
For chairs and tables bought.
On all the maps, I place a clock,
Of three gilt bronzes, must stand,
And screens of ebony and box,
To invite the stranger's hand.

I want (who does not want?)—a wife,
Affectionate and fair;
To solace the woes of life,
And all its joys to share.
O temperance, of yielding will,
Of firm, yet yielding mind,
With all my faults to love me still,
With sentiments refined.

And as time's car incessant runs,
And future fills my store,
I want of daughters and of sons,
From earth to take a score.
I want—(as can be said)—a child,
Such bliss on earth to crave;
That all the girls be chaste and fair,
The boys all wise and brave.

These are the wants of mortal man—
I cannot want them long,
For life itself is but a span,
And earthly joys are so.
My last great want, absorbing all,
Is, when beneath the soil,
And summoned to my final end,
The mercy of my God.

And old while circles in my veins,
Of life the purple stream,
And yet a fragrant soul remains,
Of nature's transient dream—
My soul in humble hope unseared,
Forget not to pray,
That this, thy hopes, may be prepared
To meet the Judgment Day.

Fred. Douglass complains of the decline in the abolition feelings in the Northern States, speaking through the Liberator as follows:

One has abandoned it because its advocates disagreed among themselves; another has dropped it because it has run into politics; still another has withdrawn from it because it tends to dissolve the Union; a very large number have quitted it because it disturbs the peace of the church; some would-be respectable people have separated from it because it stands directly in the pathway of popularity; some have abandoned it when they found that its principles required them to treat the colored man as an equal brother in all the relations of life. This last has proved too much for the abolitionism of thousands, especially of heads of families, who want their children to be respected and honored in the world. To be charged by the proud, overbearing, pro-slavery world, with keeping company with "negroes," shrivels the little soul of the coward, and shrinks away into a smallness, making the very thought of the contempt which the world then.

home, rich learn to it happy our be-simple own the

WOMAN, BEAUTIFY YOUR HOME.

Many a woman lives in a bare unadorned, beautiful home, which a little earnest effort and importunity, on her part, would greatly improve. We do not refer to the inside, but the out-side arrangements. The time will soon come to transplant trees, flowers, shrubs, vines, &c. Let the woman of each household see to it that their favorite trees and flowering shrubs and vines, are put where they would like to see them growing. Let the door way or porch or window have a beautiful flowering vine climbing over it; let the yard have some shade trees growing in it; let the walks and corners have lovely shrubs adorning them; let the garden have rows of currant, gooseberry and raspberry bushes, growing for beauty and comfort; let the fences and walks be well arranged and the grass plots and flower beds and edges be got ready, and then how much pleasanter and happier will be our farmer homes. See to these things, good women of the country. Your husbands will forget them unless you properly remind them of what their homes need for beauty. Do not let the season pass without having something done worthy of the good farmer's home. If there is no other way, let the women go out themselves, and with men to do the hard work and superintend the work themselves and see that it is done, and well done and done in season. Do not put off the work.—Procrastination is dangerous. Come what will beautify your homes.

GENTLEMAN.—Show me the man who can quit the brilliant society of the young to listen to the kindly voice of age—who can hold cheerful conversation with one whom years has deprived of all charms; show me the man who is willing to help the deformed, who would stand in need of help, if the blush of Helen manifested on his cheek; show me the man who would not sooner look rudely at the poor girl in the village, than at the well-dressed lady in the saloon show me the man who treats unprotected maidenhood as he would the heiress, surrounded by the powerful protection of rank, riches and family; show me him who avoids the libertine's side—who shun him as the blasphemer and traducer of his mother's sex—who scorns as he would the coward, the ridiculer of a woman's reputation; show me the man who never forgets for an instant the delicacy and respect that is due to woman, in any condition or class, and you show me a true gentleman.

The Marshall (Texas) Republican tells of an old negro, "Hard," who supplies that town with fuel. "Hard" is really a good looking customer and understand the science of loading a wagon to the best advantage. Recently, we were struck with admiration at one of his conical piles, through the interstices of which a large, fat man might have crawled with ease and safety.

"Hard," said we, "you certainly possess the talent for loading a wagon."

Old "Hard's" eyes twinkled with delight at the compliment, and surveying with pleasure his loaded wagon, he turned to us, exposing his ivory, and replied.

"Oh, yes, massa, but da's no use habin a talon less it pays well."

NECESSITY OF EXERCISE.—Most of the current ailments of mankind arise from want of exercise. The body must undergo a certain amount of fatigue to preserve the muscles and organs in proper vigor. "When exercise is neglected," says the Law of Health, "the blood gathers too much about the central region; and the oppression about the heart, difficulty of breathing, lowness of spirits, anxiety and heaviness, numerous aches and stitches, are evidences of this stagnation. People are fancy to take exercise, because they fancy they want breath and feel weak.—But the very effort would free the heart from this burden, by urging the blood forward to the extremities it would ease the breathing by liberating the lungs from the same superabundance; it would make the frame feel active and light, as the effect of equalized circulation and free action." A brisk walk in the open air, daily, is worth a whole shopful of nostrums.

Persons wishing to commence with the First No. should send in immediately, as the gift they are entitled to receive will encourage them to speak to others of their success, and thereby assist materially in increasing our subscription list to commence with the first No.

Among the interesting features of our Paper will be a correspondence of the most thrilling and exciting character, which took place in Paris, in 1856, between an English Gentleman and French Lady—the tyrannical opposition of the Lady's Father to the union of his daughter with the English gentleman is described in the most vivid and interesting manner, as well as the successful plots of the young lady to elude the vigilance and cruelty of her heartless father.

These lectures are deeply interesting, and of a pure, high-toned character.
Each Subscriber must send 3 three cent postage stamps for return postage on gift Address NELSON, HICKS & CO. Proprietors of the Casket of Diamonds, 75 Nassau Street, N. Y.
